
GERMAN BANK CHIEF FLIES TO LONDON FOR BIG LOAN

$500,000,000 WITH AID OF U. S. ASKED

Berlin Sees a Crisis Within 48 Hours; Big Banks in Danger

London, July 9.—Dr. Hans Luther, head of the German Reichsbank, came by airplane to London today and after a two-hour conference at the German embassy, left for Paris by boat train. It is understood he will visit Brussels also before going to Basel next Monday for a meeting of directors of the Bank for International Settlements.

Berlin, July 9.—Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, sent to London today to discuss an international loan of $500,000,000 for Germany.

Germany is thus seeking the equivalent of two billion marks, from New York, London and Paris, the strength of her nationwide "credit front," to restore confidence in her financial status, and to offset withdrawal of foreign money from Germany.

Dr. Luther, before leaving here, emphasized in a meeting with press representatives that the amount of Germany's credit was not limited by the $200,000,000 guarantee underwritten by a thousand of the Reich's citizens.

The $500,000,000 has the same value to the syndicate's effectiveness," he said, "as an ordinary bank's capital stock has to its capacity for extending credit."

All Germany Faces Crisis in the Next 48 Hours

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.

Berlin, July 9.—Germany is tottering. Behind the calm outward aspect of the governmental and economic picture are endless conferences of government, bank and industrial heads, discussing desperate measures to bolster the Reich's economic and financial structure.

Germany, by herself, will not be able to hold that structure together. This is frankly admitted by all concerned.

Dr. Hans Luther, financial minister, has gone to London with the approval of the Brüning government, on a mission symptomatic of the gravity of Germany's plight which, if unsuccessful, might precipitate a situation no one here dares to forecast.

The next 48 hours may give the answer to the question now being asked behind the scenes:

Has France's 11-day delay since President Hoover announced his re-entrance and war debt suspension plan brought Washington's action too late to save the German Republic?

There was a touch of drama in the beautiful directors' room of the Reichsbank, when Dr. Luther announced to more than 20 hastily summoned newspapermen that $300,000,000 credit for the gold discount bank.

The feature yesterday of the North German Wolf and Textile Co. (Norddeutsche), largest concern of its kind in Europe, with debts aggregating more than $30,000,000, was another staggering blow to the German financial world.

At least four big German banks are involved in the Norddeutsche disaster.

Issues a Personal Order That the Fascists Keep Out of Catholic Societies

Rome, July 9 (AP).—Premier Mussolini himself today placed a ban on fascist membership in the Catholic action organizations, thereby raising the question of virtual abrogation of the concordat with the Vatican.

As the "Duce" or chief of the Fascist party, he prohibited any of his followers from belonging to the several societies comprised in Catholic Action, branches of which were dissolved by the government May 30.

The Vatican now is faced with the problem of whether the Fascist party action is equivalent to a government action, and if so whether the ban on membership constitutes revocation of authority for such bodies to exist, which is an essential part of the concordat.

PROMOTER HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE

whether or not denatured alcohol caused the deaths.

The slain victim was Edward P. Sullivan, 44, of Bennett st., Brockton, who died December 23.

Carey, charged with manslaughter, is also the brother of himself, who died in Brockton hospital, having taken a turn for the worse this morning.

"Another blot on our country's history," said Carey, "is the prohibition of the sale of denatured alcohol."

He said that the tragedy was a prominent Boston woman made.

Director Lythgoe, while awaiting samples of the liquor used in the deadly highballs, being sent him by Agent Thomas Lee of the Boston Board of Health, said:

"From what I have heard and seen of this case, it doesn't sound like denatured alcohol to me."

Judging from all the circumstances, I would say that something else must have been mixed with the denatured alcohol which was bought."

The family of one of the victims had officials that they felt certain something other than denatured alcohol was responsible.

An earlier statement by the medical examiner said the denatured alcohol used in the highballs was of the same quality type produced under the government formula.

"I am much horrified at the death of six citizens of the Commonwealth as a result of drinking poison liquor in Brockton, deaths which are directly attributable to the present system of prohibition."

"Personally, I hope very much that our laws will be revised so that the sale of denatured alcohol for a little stimulant can be safely used without risk to the life of our people."

"Massachusetts, by eliminating the Baby Volstead act, has made fine example to other states in this country. I commend the forward to our sister Commonwealth."

In the next Presidential election, I expect to see a wet candidate elected as a result of a popular revolt against an unpopular and unworkable law."

POLICE AT REDSIDE

A police officer is still at the bedside of the victim, who is alleged to have bought the poison liquor for the party.

Police believe several others attended the party, but all attempts to locate them have failed.

It is feared they may be ill and dying, and are in great need of them are said to be contacted with the circus which played in Brockton Monday night.

DEADLY FORMULA

Analysis of the alcohol shows it was of the same quality type produced under government formula No. 5 and is one of the most deadly types sold with government approval, according to Medical Examiner Dr. W. F. Sullivan.

Police inspectors who checked information said to have been obtained from Desmorrison's book of names the clerk who sold the alcohol. According to Inspector George C. Chase, the container was plainly marked "Poison."

There was a further warning that alcohol was deadly night reus. The clerk was told the alcohol was wanted to thin out some shelling.

With each additional death another count of unsanitary was placed against Desmorrison on the police blotter.

Inspector Chase, after questioning the dying man, said Desmorrison did him of having a gallon of denatured alcohol at the store of George C. Chase, a dealer in paints and varnishes, Monday afternoon.

ALL CONSUMED

He took the job and its contents to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jacobs in Lincoln st., where the alcohol was put in four quart bottles. Later it was consumed identically with water.

The entire gallon was consumed at the party and Tuesday, Desmorrison said, he took the container back to the store and got a rebate of 25 cents, making the total to him 75 cents.

Stephen, he told the police, threatened to "beat him up" if he did not sign the certificate.

Arenic was found in the victim's organs during a chemical analysis ordered by Dr. George Burgess Magrath, medical examiner of Suffolk County. The examination, lasting over a period of several months, was climaxed with a report to Chelsea District Court which stated that Filipiak was poisoned.

The finding was closely guarded by Chief of Police Charles M. Finn of Chelsea, but the possible arrest of Mrs. Filipiak has been a topic of discussion in her neighborhood for weeks.

Only the day before her arrest, it was learned, the widow retained a Boston attorney. She declined to discuss the case with police during her confinement in the police station last night.

The attention of Chelsea police was first called to the case Thursday by David when Dr. Myers was called to the home.

DOCTOR NOTICES POISON

He found the victim suffering from a heavy dose of poison, and urged him to go to a hospital for treatment. The police were called to do, but his wife objected strenuously. She feared he would "all out up."

Dr. Myers then notified Chelsea police of his suspicions. Informing them that he had made a previous visit to the home November 22 and found the same poison symptoms.

Despite this information, Chief Finn failed to act and on the following day Filipiak died. Whether any further dose of poison were administered to the victim during the night could not be determined.

A bottle found in the Filipiak home was turned over to state chemists for examination. It was later turned over to Chief Finn, who was lost while in his custody.

RUSSIAN VANISHED

The widow had been questioned several times at her Arlington st. home, but until yesterday, police admitted, no direct evidence had been uncovered which would warrant her arrest.

The fact that Filipiak was poisoned was revealed exclusively by the Boston Evening American, and publication of the story was allowed immediately by the arrest of his widow on a murder warrant.

Soon after she was taken into custody it was learned that the Russian visitor to her home had vanished months ago and police immediately began a search for him.

The three-story tenement at 19 Arlington st. was purchased by the Filipiahs in 1923, a payment of $4000 being made by Mrs. Filipiak at the time of purchase and a mortgage issued for the balance.

It was admitted that the story of the cousin, John Bonelawsky, of 69 Broadway, has to do with the fact that Filipiak was unaware that any insurance policies had been taken out on his life. His story, it was said, was that the wife had taken them out without his knowledge and made herself the beneficiary, Raymond, 18.

Edward Jacobs

Two of the victims of the after-circus party in Brockton were cocktails, mixed from a jug of denatured alcohol, caused the death of six persons. Above are Edward Jacobs and Lloyd Dean.

Mrs. Annis Jacobs, 55, her son, Edward, 26, Lloyd Dean, 41, of Bennett st., brother of Mrs. Jacobs, George Davidson, 56, of Hunt st., and John B. Blake, 55, of West Bridgewater.

Charles Jacobs, husband of the dead woman, told police he was at the house at the time of the drinking and did not drink any of the deadly highballs, nor did another son, Raymond, 18.

even buy an engagement ring for his secret fiancée. But he asked her to kind of a ring she liked.

"I want a ring like Norma Scherer has," she said.

And so Rudy had a friend go and buy her a pearl-shaped engagement ring, which is said to have set the croaker back $100.

The wedding ring was of platinum, set with diamonds.

GOT A HEALTHY START

Following the wedding, performed by Police Recorder Herbert Lightgate in the West Orange, Board of Health office, the ceremonial party prepared to Tommy Guinness's Club Napoleon to celebrate. And who should be seated at the very next table but Agnes O'Loughlin and her new boy friend, Rudy? Agnes had once claimed Rudy as her boy friend and had sent him for $2000 when he defied it.

Rudy turned almost as white as a "mourning color," even though he had already "let Ray" about Agnes. However, the two were exchanged, and finally Agnes and her new boy friend moved into the party and drank a toast to the bride.

Rudy, with them all the happiness in the world, Miss O'Loughlin said later.

Hathaway's Plea Goes Over to Sept. 9
Providence, July 8 (AP)—Argument on motion for a new trial for Elliott Hathaway, Fall River playboy, indicted for slaying Vera E. Rusk, student nurse, was continued until Sept. 9 by Judge Charles E. Walsh in court here today. Hathaway was not in court. The proceedings lasted only a few minutes. Asst. Atty.-Gen. R. W. Fletcher, Jr., told the court that Atty. George Hurley, chief counsel for Hathaway, who drew the motion. was in New York and desired to argue it. He said that junior counsel, Atty. John H. Nolan, was in court and asked for a continuance. Fletcher said the attorney-general was agreeable to postponement.

200,000 Facing Mill Wage Cut in England
London, July 8 (AP)—Wool textile unions have been officially informed by the Employers' Council that wages are to be reduced 11.7

per cent next week. The unions will decide their attitude on Saturday. Altogether some 200,000 workers are affected. Some Bradford spinners have not yet joined the movement and Huddersfield employees are also holding aloof.

'Singing Earl,' Ill Four Days, Is Dead
Chattanooga, Northumberland, England, July 8 (AP)—The Earl of Tankerville, sometimes called "the Singing Earl," died today after four days' illness. He was 78.

GANDHI FEARS 8 MEN HURT IN WAYS OF U. S., WON'T COME
Bombay, India, July 8 (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, answering a letter from a countryman in America, said in the newspaper Young India today that he had no intention of going to the United States to plead the cause of Indian freedom.

"The proposal to visit America has been with me for five years or longer," he said, "but I lacked the inner urge or courage to go. The very allurement some writers have held out have had no effect on my original decision, based on nothing better than intuition."

His correspondent had advised him not to go, saying: "This country is a very peculiar country in many respects and Americans, as a rule, are a materialistically inclined. They can hardly see anything in terms other than of dollars and cents. Your visit to this country would be absolutely misunderstood and the wonderful hold you have today on some imaginative Americans would be lost, in a way."

In reply to the writer's expressed hope that he would not wear European clothes on his forthcoming trip to London, the Mahatma reiterated his decision to wear only a loin cloth.

2 STATES SHOW U. S. TAX GAIN
Washington, July 8 (AP)—Colorado and Virginia were the only states that increased internal revenue payments in the 1931 fiscal year, while the remaining were responsible for more than a half-billion dollar decrease in federal collections.

Total revenue collections for the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $2,428,180,220 as compared with $3,040,145,723 in 1930, the Treasury statistics today showed. Colorado paid into the federal Treasury $15,667,231 during 1931, as compared with $12,668,426 in the preceding year. Virginia returned $12,761,272 as compared with $96,091,138 in 1930.

Shaw and Lady Astor Given Soviet Visas
Moscow, July 8 (AP)—Visas have been granted by the Soviet government to George Bernard Shaw, Nancy Lady Astor and a party of distinguished Britons who have announced their intention to visit Russia this summer.

New York, July 8 (AP)—Eight workmen were reported injured in an explosion at the subway tunnel under construction outside of the Polo Grounds, near 130th street today. Police said several sickles of dynamite had exploded, when struck by a workman's pickaxe.

Police said that blast had been fired in the tunnel and the workmen had reentered to set off the second blast. Several strikes had evidently failed to explode and the eight were trapped 60 feet under the ground when the second unexpected explosion occurred.

Ambulances and police emergency crews were rushed from Harlem Hospital and the Bronx and the men were brought to the surface.

WORK HOLDS UP HOOVER'S TRIP
Washington, July 8 (AP)—Hopes which President Hoover may have entertained for going to his California home this summer have been lessened by recent developments in the Capitol.

Regular week-end trips to his Rapidan camp in Virginia are expected to break the slack of dealing with the many problems which piled up when he turned from the successful negotiations of his war-debt delivery proposal.

Some of these problems are: Governmental study of the coal industry, which began today.

The giant wheat surplus from last year and the threat of another this year. A Treasury deficit of nearly $1,000,000,000. Curtailment of federal expenses. Study of the part the United States will play in the Geneva disarmament conference. Final action on recommendations by the Tariff Commission. Chaffing of his message to Congress.

Mexican Church Plea Rejected by Courts
Mexico City, July 8 (AP)—Petitions for injunction against application of the Vera Cruz state law placing restrictions on the church, filed by Catholic priests of Vera Cruz in all the district courts of the country, were rejected today by the six district courts of Mexico City. The courts held the matter was one of direct reference to the Vera Cruz state legislature rather than to the tribunals.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead. Here is what one of America's great scientists, whom we retained to study LUCKY STRIKE'S manufacturing process, says about the mellowing effect of Ultra Violet Rays which are included in our exclusive "TOASTING" process:

"The effects of this ultra violet treatment on the tobacco have been tested and are found to involve an increase in what is called the 'mildness' of the tobacco."

One of America's greatest writers and editors says this:

"When I visited Reidsville and went through the LUCKY STRIKE plant, I found one explanation for the growth of LUCKY STRIKE. Your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of tobaccos is a splendid example of achievement. It is the new order of the day."

Remember, LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America which offers you the throat protection of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process—that secret heating process which expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos, and which includes the extra mellowing benefits of modern Ultra Violet Rays. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple." Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

BAKED IN LOVE, GIRL AND DAD'S AUTO GONE

Worcester police were today asked to find Miss Greta J. Mundy, of Barnard, N. H., Worcester, who lived in Jamaica Plain until a few months ago and attended West Roxbury high school.

Her father told police she disappeared from home with his auto and all of her clothes following a quarrel over her desire for permission to marry Herbert Arnet Maple, of West Roxbury, musician.

The father said he objected to her marriage because of her youth and his lack of knowledge of the intended husband.

Two hours after the argument, Miss Mundy was missing from home, according to the father's report to the police. He also told her clothes and dad's motor car.

NEW PLEA FOR RACE BETTING

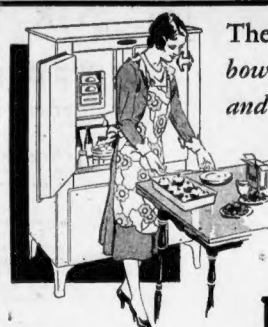

Concord, N. H., July 9.—A final appeal to permit pari-mutuel betting at the Rockingham race track in Salem will be made to Governor John J. Winant by a committee of influential Rockingham County citizens late today.

The committee, it is understood, will request the governor to call a special session of the Legislature in order that the certificate form of betting on horses may be made legal.

Governor Winant, it is understood, is opposed to any such action.

The committee's plea will be based on the contention that Rockingham County lost a small fortune when the New York promoters, who invested $250,000, were forced to pull stakes.

Among those who will see the governor are former state Senator W. W. Kell, former Rep. Amos Korman, and Fred Harsh, president of the Lions Club of Salem.

MAINE BUSINESS BEST IN NATION

Business conditions in New England, particularly in Maine, are in better condition than in the country in general, according to A. P. Greenfield, president of the Associated General Contractors of America, a meeting today at the Parker House.

With 100 companions, Mr. Greenfield has just completed a survey of the contracting business in New England. Associated with him in the survey were Edward J. Harding of Washington, D. C., managing director, and B. L. Knowlton of Worcester, president of the organization's New England branch.

Auto Output for June 254,000 Cars
New York, July 9 (AP)—Automobile production in the United States and Canada in June is estimated by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at 254,000 cars and trucks, compared with 327,803 in May and 305,000 in June last year.

Production for the first six months this year totaled 1,633,043 cars and trucks, compared with 1,602,265 in the corresponding period of 1930.

Cuban Labor Asks Civil Intervention
Washington, July 9 (AP)—Cuban labor organizations have appealed to the Pan-American Federation of Labor for civil intervention and oppose the regime of President Machado.

They charged they had been mistreated by the Cuban administration. The Pan American Federation said the communications were being studied but declined other comment.

Above Seattle, yesterday, two Toucan, Birman, Robbins and Jones, started a "non-stop" flight of more than 5000 miles to Tokyo. They may take fuel from other planes in flight, but must not land. If they succeed, a Japanese paper will pay them $25,000. A another ship will give them fuel above Alaska and Siberia.

Professor Einstein enters another realm of "relativity," writing to President Hoover protesting against the death sentences of eleven young Negroes in Scottsboro, Ala., about to be executed for alleged attacks on white women.

President Hoover has nothing to do with the matter, but Dr. Einstein probably does not know that. His sympathies are aroused, as were those of another great German, Heinrich Heine, a poet and also a Jew, who called for freedom "richer dream" because it was proposed to tar and feather a white child for allowing his daughter to marry a Negro.

MOTHER FRANTIC AS BABY SUFFERS FROM ECZEMA

Resinol heals him quickly
"When my baby was a few weeks old eczema broke out on his body. I tried various treatments but none of them seemed to give him any relief. He only grew worse and cried all the time. I was almost frantic. A friend of Mother's suggested Resinol Ointment. I got a jar and in about a week's time the improvement was amazing."

VACATION SPOT PLACED ON SALE

Mountain Lakes, a 200-acre tract of summer home sites, at Groton, Mass., 26 miles from Boston on routes 2 and 2A, was placed on the market today in one of the biggest realty campaigns undertaken this year.

The tract, which already has been partially improved and includes 300 bungalows, will be extensively developed during the coming summer, according to the Massachusetts Development Co., owner and developer. Eighteen bungalows are now under way.

The aim of the developers is to make it an attractive family vacation spot. A large community clubhouse is the center of recreational activities. Dance and other social gatherings are scheduled here weekly.

Robert C. Shattin, manager of the company, declared today that the property has many facilities for boating, fishing, bathing, tennis and hiking. There are four lakes on the property—one of which has a white sandy beach. The tract is probably covered with pine trees.

Electricity has been installed and a food store is conveniently located.

ODD BITS FROM EVERYWHERE! IF IT RAINS YOU may even use it for a jig-saw puzzle. Every day seems like a deluge to us because we have decided in spite of the moratorium not to go across the Big Pond this summer—we suspect moratoriums on principles, having bought a thing or two on the moratorium plan and figuring up back interest is too painful; so we will continue to be one of the depressed and join the Hearst and Home Club.

We hear the sound of wheels coming from the Westcott. Mary Lowell Bigelow returning from Santa Barbara in her covered wagon with her three children and a shiny, new divorce. Mistress Mary is one of Boston's own, and you may imagine that she dotted all of the 1's and crossed every t before she was satisfied. They say that Fred will have less spending money than he has been used to, but that is fair enough as Mary was generous from the beginning. Turn about a fair play. Wonder what Cousin Lawrence thinks about it? Mr. Bigelow will no doubt entrench himself among the mountains of Chocoma and throw himself into—not a ravine—his literary work. And Mary will go down to the shore, no doubt, for sympathy with the family.

MISS ELEANOR

PROTHINGHAM FROTHINGHAM thinks about it? Mr. Bigelow will no doubt entrench himself among the mountains of Chocoma and throw himself into—not a ravine—his literary work. And Mary will go down to the shore, no doubt, for sympathy with the family.

Expected to Be Among Fall Brides

WE SAW ELEANOR PROTHINGHAM AND AUSTIN SMITH in town yesterday. The date of their wedding has not been announced, but we hear it will be in the fall. Perhaps they are busy buying the what-nots for a little apartment, who knows, not dreaming that our gaze should light on them, perchance.

INDEFATIGABLE MISS

JAMES J. FHELAN is winning the war against fatigue. He is very graciously inviting the members of the Italian Historical Society of Massachusetts to her summer home, Leiden, Manchester, N. H., for a luncheon on Tuesday, July 14, at 3. And in spite of the long ride, and the heat, or rain, she is going to attend because she enjoys meeting this charming hostess and her very attractive family. Now in the world she manages to entertain for her young folks, and her adoring friends, to the detriment of this and that good cause in her help, and remains the indefatigable lady gives us food for speculation. How we wished we had studied Italian as we planned last winter.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS THACHER are off again to Murray Bay in Canada, that very summer place with perfectly marvelous fish. Every other year the Thachers are elsewhere, but this is the season for the Bay and we envy them. It is well worth the long journey to reach there. Thacher, Jr., who married Vera Morgan, daughter of the smart Mrs. Fallowell Morgan of New York, lives on Phippskey at Beacon Hill. Dorothy Thacher, who is married to Bill Amory, resided in New York and Hope, who married Bernard Carter, son of Lady Carter, and represented

About people you know in Boston stores —by FRANCES BAIRD—

Women's waists are growing smaller in Paris. And glances growing coquettish under the new fitted hats that reveal only one eye. These are the observations of Mrs. Gladys Kishner, buyer of French underthings, negligees and tea gowns for Hollander's, who returned from France yesterday.

The fall fashions with more fitted lines in all apparel, will be very interesting," Mrs. Kishner reports. "But, really good things are not coming out of the market at least, not in Paris."

MALCOLMS RETURN TO POSTS

Mrs. Violet Carr Malcolm, of Boston's public relations staff, and Mr. Malcolm, have returned from their vacation, spent visiting Mr. and Mrs. David L. McKim in Jamestown, N. Y.

Mr. Brumfield, now a practicing attorney of that place, was editor of the Echo, was in charge of the C. A. A. and a councillor in that organization three years ago.

MOONLIGHT SAIL PLANNED Members of the Yacht Association are eagerly anticipating a moonlight sail on Friday, July 10. They will sail from Rowe's wharf at 8:30 and cruise down the harbor for three hours.

The social committee of the organization, headed by Basil Goodwin, is in charge. Mrs. Katherine Garritty, traffic manager; Henry Wynant, merchandise manager; Arthur Kernan, purchasing officer; Wynant, Monowick, floor manager; and Barnett Nymmet, shoe department.

ive of Morgan & Co. of Paris, has a villa in the south of France as well as town house on the Rue. According to Post and Gatty, they are almost neighbors and under certain conditions that drop in on one another for a cup of tea.

MRS. LEWIS E. MCCAGG, Jr., has come on from New York to be with her mother, Mrs. George Winslow, at her summer place in Wiscasset for the summer. The daughter of the family, Mrs. Robert Clarke, who returned from South America this spring, will also be with her mother with her two children.

WHAT WOULD THREE children do without a grandmother? Mrs. Thorne Mandell (Gardner) Charles has taken her brood and will summer with her mother, Mrs. Robert Clarke, at the Anchorage in York Harbor. Mrs. Clark is mother is getting to be quite the fashion.

OTHER BEACONHILLERS who are drifting Malineau are Mr. J. Murray Forbes, whose daughter, Mrs. Thorne Mandell, is visiting in Newport at the present time. He has a summer at Dark Harbor and will be joined by Miss Dorothy later in the season.

FASCINATING MRS. RONALD T. LYMAN has taken the Barnum cottage for the season at Malineau. Her attractive family will no doubt spend some time with her. Arriving tomorrow on their yacht Wyndham will be Mr. and Mrs. Lyman. Mr. Lyman is as part of Eastern Yacht Club cruise. And Mrs. Lyman is as part of the Hyde Park and also expected. Other arrivals are the Charles Dillman, Jr., and (Phyllis Ellsworth) that was.

On Sunday, about the St. Louis. She will be accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Dillman, Jr., of Norrie Sweets, and Mrs. Grant Carter, of the Behrve Studio.

The party will spend some time in Ireland and then proceed to the Charles Dillman, Jr., and Mr. O'Callaghan plan to return on the Lehigh on Aug. 17.

SOCIETY GROUP STARTS TOMORROW ON A CRUISE OVER CAPE

WEDDING BELLS TO RING SOON FOR THEM

One of the most startlingly new events in the way of cruises is due to start tomorrow when planes of the Aviation Country Clubs go off from Curtis Airport and North Beach, L. I., for Watch Hill, R. I., where the first night will be spent. Marston Hill, Nantucket, and Provincetown, the haven for the second night out.

The third day, Sunday, the goal will be Plymouth, with time out for lunch at the Dunbar Yacht Club. At each stopping place a motor launch will be waiting to take the fliers, and in Plymouth and Plymouth, several of the historical places of special interest will be visited.

25 Planes on Cruise

"Among those present" in the 25 planes will be Miss Eleanor Hoyt, the well-known aviator and daughter of a still better-known father, Richard F. Hoyt, of New York, who recently was divorced by his wife, and immediately afterwards married Mrs. Doubleday, also of New York.

But we are digressing from the flight—and it was the daughter, "Kiki," as she is called by her friends, who were talking about it. With her will be her fiancé, A. E. du Pont, Jr., of Wilmington and Wianco, both of whom are excellent and cool-headed pilots.

Also there will be Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Putnam, Jr., of U. S. Elliot, Kendall Bates, Hollis T. Gieson, and Mrs. H. B. Gieson, and Mrs. Ann Burton, who has been so familiarly sighted in the Vincent shows for two or three years.

The flight should bring out all sorts of flying interest in the people who see them all along the way, and we shall hear of them in the world, from start to finish.

Cohasset Cast

Something else, though of quite a different sort, will be happening down in Cohasset, tomorrow, and it ought to be pretty good. The Cohasset Dramatic Club, then, we didn't know they had one, either, will present a comedy, "Kiki," as she is called by her friends, who were talking about it. With her will be her fiancé, A. E. du Pont, Jr., of Wilmington and Wianco, both of whom are excellent and cool-headed pilots.

Enna Jetlick Blimp

Officials of the Curtis Shore Co. retail distributors of the Enna Jetlick Blimp, which is being taken for a sightseeing tour over Boston yesterday, will be in the Enna Jetlick Blimp, blimp type, from the Boston airport.

The party arrived at the field shortly before 2 o'clock and were taken to the Curtis Shore Co. by a car. Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Hoyt, who are the physical research laboratories at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, will be in the Enna Jetlick Blimp, blimp type, from the Boston airport.

Going Democratic

Warsaw, July 9 (AP)—Poland's Lysy kingdom is threatened with a democratic revolution. The Polish gypsies, who always have given police authorities more or less anxiety by their periodic disputes over who should be acknowledged king, constitute a problem this year because one pretender is denouncing kings as old-fashioned and is setting up a gypsy republic—with himself as first pretender.

Beware when told "It's just like Kotex"

WHEN a substitute claims to be "just like Kotex," ask whether it is made by the makers of Kotex. Is it adjustable, disposable, and easy to use? Only when these questions are answered to your complete satisfaction, as Kotex assures them, can any substitute justify its claim, "just like Kotex."

After all, why take risks? You know the wonderful safety of Kotex—the world's standard in sanitary protection. Don't give up this assurance... even if a few pennies saving is offered by a nameless substitute, of whose makers you know nothing.

Fete for Vets Concerts Start Hobart to Wed Tomorrow on Esplanade

The patients at the Chelsea Naval Hospital are to be guests tomorrow at an entertainment sponsored and offered by the Disabled Veterans Hospital Society, Inc., whose present guidance is under the management of Mrs. Robert Lincoln O'Brien, executive chairman.

This week's entertainment promises to outshine anything ever before offered in this line at the hospital.

Emile Coulon, Jr., manager of the Hotel Westminster, is bringing his Royal Garden orchestra under the direction of "Nickie" Alpert, who will be assisted by Billy Payne, the radio tenor.

In conjunction with this extraordinary entertainment, Coulon is also furnishing refreshments which will include a luncheon for the patients, including Miss Sally Sprague, Miss Dorothy Rogers, Miss Rosamond Holton, and Miss Janet Conway. The hospital visiting committee will be in attendance.

Joyce Brothers Employs on Outing

One hundred and fifty members of the Joyce Bros. Benevolent Society from the company's 10 New England stores, enjoyed an annual outing at the Putnam House, Danvers, yesterday afternoon.

A ball game between Reds and Blues was won by the former, 11 to 5, largely through the heavy hitting of President Edward W. Joyce of the company. Sports included a 100-yard dash for foot, sack race for women, three-legged race, egg, balloon and spoon races.

'30 U. S. EXPORT OF CAPITAL $733,000,000

Washington, July 9 (AP)—United States capital exports during 1930 totaled well over the previous eight-year average, notwithstanding it was a banner year for re-exports.

Figures compiled by the Commerce Department show that during the average eight-year period the average exports total had amounted to $728,000,000.

On the other hand, receipts from interest, bond redemptions and amortization on American foreign investments abroad, including payments on the government's war loan account, reached what Assistant Secretary Julius Klein said was a new record total of $1,300,000,000.

American tourists carried $511,000,000 abroad to balance the money coming in from the sale of the country's long-term investments.

Small, said, although the average tourist spent less money abroad than in former years, more people went.

A heavy premium on dollars throughout most of the year was credited by Dr. Klein with having more capital into the country by foreign investors than was repatriated by Americans investing abroad.

That, together with the disappearance of another man who accompanied him to the hotel and was assigned an adjoining room, caused detectives to believe it was a gang murder, a new way of putting a victim on the spot.

The missing man was registered as "C. Grossman, of Bridgeport."

One watch dropped from the tray as the robber escaped and Pinet recovered it.

THIS IS LIFE

O. HENRY, ONE 'NATURAL' IN ENTIRE HISTORY OF AMERICAN LETTERS

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

HOW MANY PEOPLE, I WONDER, read O. Henry nowadays? There was a day when the average American undergraduate ranked him ahead of all his contemporaries, read him as he read Kipling and Robert Service with avid relish and uncritical acceptance. I have a feeling that the day has passed. The American undergraduate of today has both sunk below and risen above O. Henry. The majority are reading tripe in magazines edited particularly for the moving picture type of college man; the small remainder are reading far better stuff than O. Henry and being pretty critical about it.

Yet the man was a "natural," such a natural as perhaps never appeared before in our letters—or since. I have just been skimming through the new book about him. It isn't worth much more than skimming, for it is pretty thin and anecdotal and uncritical. It is called "The Call of Bagdad" and it was written together by two rhapsodists, Arthur B. Maurice and old Bob Davis (Robert H. Davis), that perennial elder brother of the successful magazine writer.

Where Natural Writers Come From

Once in a blue moon appears some lonely and educated man who somehow learns how to write. He is the product of no college; he has taken no courses in the short story, nor learned to turn out successful examples of what the French like to call a "machine." Best of all, he belongs to no coteries (or veterans) and penitents, as Oliver Herford once said; he has no lunch club of mutual admirers, no organized ballyhoo of publisher and journalist.

He lives in a furnished room and prefers mean streets and people to no end of it. He has no part in the noise and glitter of the white light district of literature. Leonard Merrick must have been that sort of person, for he has written so well about him. And we know from Thomas Beers that Stephen Crane was all that, in contrast to the fortunate youth, Richard Harding Davis, whose life was a pleasant pageant of going places and knowing famous people and being one of them.

O. Henry was like Crane. And a little like Richard Savage and, probably, Francis Villon. He consoled by preference with the people who didn't matter and made literature out of them. He had been in jail, though this present book seems to make out that it wasn't altogether his fault; he had been in exile in the spoggy countries of which he wrote so delightfully in "Cabbages and Kings." He had lost his wife and was separated from his child. He may have been blackmailed. Certainly he was always in debt, always wanting money, always forestalling his receipts from his stories. But so was Jack London.

Knew Little About Respectability

He lived in a furnished room and was hard to find. He wrote about New York as it was from 1900 to 1910 or thereabouts. He called it "Bagdad-on-the-Subway" and by that name it is still remembered. And how he wrote about it! But Messrs. Maurice and Davis, who wrote the New York story, knew what might have been found within a half-mile radius of his furnished room on Irving pl., for O. Henry had an invincible disposition to walking more than that distance in any direction. He spent hours and days in a little saloon calca-corned from his house. He probably drank pretty heavily and was never drunk. He loved to go night-rambling in mean streets, to talk to men in saloons and women on the street, to give money to people in bread lines, to get them without their knowing it to give him suggestions for those concise, laconic immortal stories of his. He was a "natural."

He didn't know much about the solid, respectable, established classes of society. His sketches of society men and women are usually quaint and humorous, not very convincing. But he knew Texas cowboys and kind office agents; he knew the aristocratic and adventuresome troops of Central America. He knew con men and bunco steers and gentle grafters everywhere.

He knew, above all, the people who live in furnished rooms and in basement kitchens in the counterpane and in shabby little drug stores, who go to political dances in their district, and on excursion boats to Coney Island, and who sit and lie on the benches in Madison sq.—in the days before the old Garden was torn down.

He knew the serenitas girls who went to palm readers and found their lovers thereby, and the young married artists who tried to help each other working at mental tasks. He knew the genial hand-patched four-bushers of the great city, the ten-cent-a-week clerks who pretended to be lecturers on a vacation, the young architects who lost their chances of a rich marriage on "dress parade." He knew Soapy the Bum, who wanted to go to the island for the winter and then didn't want to—but went. He knew Prince Michael of Vallequia, who died on a park bench in his dope dream, and the traitor who looked at Lord Rotherham's portrait and didn't go out to dinner with Piggy-Piggy being, we are told, no less than O. Henry himself.

Perhaps he wouldn't recognize his New York any more. There were no skyscrapers to speak of when he was writing. And no moving picture palaces and no night clubs and no speakeasies. But no matter how much the physical island of Manhattan is changed, he would find his people still living there as he knew them. And he would find dozens of young girl writers, like Fanny Hurst, who learned of him and have made fortunes doing his stuff.

He wrote only a few years. His stories were very short. Many of them were written under pressure for Sunday newspapers and sold for $50. But there are some 10 or 12 volumes of his little anecdotes, some of them hardly more. And out of them, some day, some death with genius will collect one volume, no more, of a few stories which will be a permanent part of the immortal record of American life.

O. Henry would probably have chuckled at that. But perhaps he would not have been surprised, after all. Only, it was always so hard to know what he was really thinking.

Beverly Millionaire Wants to Make It Easy for Family to See Him

"Old Emerson" Dunham, Beverly millionaire serving a two-year sentence for alleged fraudulent sale of $2,000,000 in Page & Shaw Candy Co. stock, today was transferred from the East Cambridge House of Correction to the Salem House of Correction.

At the time of his conviction last year Dunham asked that he be sent to the Salem institution in order that his family in Beverly might more easily visit him. His request was denied.

The transfer order came through Dr. A. Warren Stearns, commissioner of correction. Joseph Polley and Isaac Hart, bookkeepers convicted with Dunham, who was president of the candy company, also sought transfers. Hart has also been removed to the state farm in Bridgewater because of poor health. Polley also remains at East Cambridge.

LOVE MAKES BOY STUBBORN AND DEFIANT

Declares That He Will Stay in Boston Until He Is Old Enough to Marry

Love's young dream took Daniel De Bontolo, 16, of 84 C st., South Boston, into South Boston court today charged with being a stubborn child.

Devi told Judge Edward L. Leary he would not leave his sweetheart, Estelle Taylor, 16, of Washington st., South Boston, to accompany his family to California.

He gravely explained he intends to remain in Boston and carve out a career, marrying Estelle when both become of age.

"I can take care of myself, Mr. Leary," the boy declared. "I'll get a job and work as a helper on my brother-in-law's ice truck."

Judge Logan reasoned with young De Bontolo, without avail, and eventually continued the case until Saturday with the warning the boy would either go with his family at 10 in Shirley School.

The father, Albert D. Bontolo, a book Daniel, into court, explained the boy had steadfastly refused to accompany the family in their proposed removal to the Pacific Coast.

"I can do anything with him," said De Bontolo, "and I wish Mr. Leary would order him to go."

Questioned by the court as to the reasons for his refusal, young De Bontolo at first said he did not like California and then said he did not want to leave Estelle.

At length he admitted he had never been there, and the story of his romance came out.

"I can't leave Estelle," he said plainly, "and while too young to take with me. We can't marry yet here until we become of age. I will not go to California, no matter what the doctor says." Saturday will tell the story.

CHIVALRY TALE WINS LENIENCY

Pleading guilty in municipal court today to overtime parking in Boylston st., Cornelius J. Sullivan, 34, of Brewster st., Brighton, told a story of chivalry which saved him from a fine.

It was the little ethically known in police circles as "Case No. 42, Damsel in Distress." But this time it was true.

"Golly, your honor, but may I tell my story," said Sullivan.

"Go ahead," said Judge Michael J. Murray, wearily.

"Well I was just going to drive away," said the defendant, "when I saw a lady trying to wave her car out of a tight place between two machines at the curb. So I helped her and as my horse went I saw a man in a tuxedo and a woman in a dress. I thought they were a rich couple and I thought I'd better help them. I drove them to the hotel and they gave me a tip. I thought that was pretty good of them. I didn't want to go to jail for nothing."

"Case closed," said Judge Murray, with a broad smile.

DAILY TRUE STORY

THE WINNING SUIT

"I'D MUCH RATHER SIT HERE," SAID ETHEL

"COME ON, it's time to go in swimming," Ethel, undressing in her locker room, heard the call and readily held up her bathing suit for another inspection. It had sleeves down to the elbows, a high neckline and even a skirt. As a bathing suit it apparently bore no relation at all to the backless, almost frontless bathing suit of today. But Ethel was going to wear it.

"I suppose the men will say what's that when they see me," she said to herself as she slipped out of her scanty summer attire and began to don the old-fashioned bathing suit. When she had it on she was more dressed than she had been in her street clothes. Then she went to join her companions on the beach.

There were nearly a score of them, but none mentioned Ethel's suit. She realized, however, that they were merely polite, that their real inclination was to laugh. They dashed into the water, the men and women together, and under the exhilaration of plunging into the surf Ethel momentarily forgot that she was wearing a "Mother Hubbard." Others joined the group in the surf, and many camaraderie of the beach. But the men who were introduced in Ethel's suit aimed away to follow some other girl in a more daring suit. Once a swimmer Ethel blinked back the tears as she realized the reason. "It wasn't because she wasn't pretty and attractive," she said, "she was as pretty as any girl on the beach. But the men look one look at her, and then, sheaps bathing suit, mumbled a few words of excuse and escaped as soon as they could."

All Fled but One
They Were Soon Friends

All except one. Ethel had noticed him before a mutual acquaintance introduced them, and had decided that he was what she termed nice. "I wonder who he is," she thought, as she noted that he, too, was covertly watching her. She soon learned. "How do you do," Mr. Winton, said the mutual acquaintance as he introduced them. Then, without realizing that all thought he had left her mind Ethel found herself swinging on a rope stretched between two poles and talking to him.

In a few minutes each had been given these brief immediate biographical details which follow such meetings. Mr. Winton, Roger Winton, had arrived only that day at the seaside resort. Ethel learned.

"I just got here, too," she said. "I came down to spend two weeks with mother. There's a nice crowd here, I know most of them."

They left the water together and when Ethel, having changed back into her street clothes, came out of the bathhouse she found him waiting for her.

"Do you mind if I walk back to the hotel with you?" he asked as he fell into step beside her. After lunch he met her on the hotel porch and proposed that they go sailing.

"I've got my own boat," he said. "It isn't much but I'll let you sail a good sailor. And there's a nice crowd here, I know most of them."

"I love to go," murmured Ethel.

Old-Fashioned Girls
That's the Kind He Liked

They spent the afternoon on the water, slowly sailing in the first wind. As they talked and as they talked Ethel realized more and more that no man had ever interested her as much as he did. And she knew, as all women know, that he was more than interested in her. She was sorry when they finally drifted into the little dock and he helped her ashore and asked her how long it had been since she had been with a man like that.

They were, that night, and almost each succeeding day and night. But whenever Roger proposed that they go in bathing Ethel demurred. "I'd much rather just sit here and watch them," she said. And Roger didn't insist.

The two weeks of Ethel's vacation soon passed. "I intended to stay longer, but I think I'll go back to the city with you. You don't mind, do you?"

No, Ethel didn't mind, she said. "I'm glad you did, but I don't think you would en-

RIOT GUNS ORDERED IN CAMBRIDGE WAR ON GUNMEN

3. FELLED HAND-IN-HAND

POLICE WAR ON CAMBRIDGE BANDITS

Extra Details With Riot Guns Ready to Halt New Crime Wave

Extra police details if necessary, armed with riot guns, were today ordered on duty by Chief of Police John J. McBride of Cambridge to stop the wave of banditry in that city, following early morning hold-ups.

The order resulted from a conference between Mayor Richard M. Russell and Chief McBride, in which the mayor is understood to have issued a ultimatum that holdups and robberies must end.

CAPTAINS CALLED IN
Chief McBride called in Capt. William R. Givvy of Station 1, Central sq.; Edward J. Welch, Station 2, Harvard sq.; Timothy P. Leahy, Station 3, East Cambridge, and John J. Canney, Station 4, North Cambridge.

To each he issued orders regarding the holdups and robberies, stating that if necessary extra details must be placed on the streets at night with the officers armed with riot guns.

Chief McBride made it plain that the wave of banditry which has been sweeping the city, with five holdups within 48 hours, must be brought to a halt.

PARKERS HELD UP.

The latest holdup was that of Frank Grogan, 25, of 22 Academy Hill rd., Brighton. With Miss Catherine Furlong, 24, of 520 Broadway, South Boston, he was sitting in a car parked in Henry st., near Magazine st., Cambridge at 3 o'clock this morning.

Three youths, two of them armed, drove up in another car and, pointing guns, demanded money.

Grogan convinced them that he had none and the bandits contented themselves with taking his car keys and driving away.

The first victim was Ray Edwards, 33, of 33 Thompson st., Winchester, driving with Miss Emily Bucko of 2 Crescent Hill, Wakefield, along Glenwood st., Malden.

The three bandits compelled Edwards to get out of his car with Miss Bucko and walk while they drove away.

Frank M. Pendergast of 368 Pleasant st., Melrose, was driving on Third st., Cambridge, with his wife, when the bandits attempted to force him into the curb. Pendergast threw his keys into the car and escaped.

CAR RECOVERED
Later Sgt. William A. Cullen found the car, stolen in Malden, at Sydney st., near Allston st.

In the meantime, the bandits held up a man and two girls in a car on Brookline st., near Memorial Drive. They compelled the man and his companions to get out of the car and leave the motor running. The girls offered to turn over their purses, but the robbers refused them. The man, known only as Jerry, was forced to hand over $1.

The breaking of a clothesline today endangered Dorothy Tuttle, 1-year-old daughter of Fireman Mrs. Leo Tuttle, from a third floor piazza at her home, 30 Mill-st., Dorchester, in probable walk on the ground below.

The child's face struck a rock at the end of a 42-foot drop and she was taken to City Hospital with a fractured skull. Her name was placed on the danger list.

Supper Dish
Add Golden's Cream Sauce to 1 cup chopped beef and 1 cup vegetables.

Clever cooks would probably vote cream sauce the most useful recipe—so valuable for creamed dishes, souffles, croquettes, etc. Try seasoning with Golden's Prepared Mustard for wonderful new flavor. 2 teaspoons Golden's added to 1 cup sauce gives double deliciousness to creamed dishes and makes these old favorites a new treat.

CRAVEN-CHISHOLM TEAM BEATEN AT WINCHESTER

FANNING

By GEORGE UNDERWOOD
Clear the Tracks! Return Embroglio.
A Collision Near. A Boston Natural.
Schaaf vs. Shamus. Whole Town Talks.

Sauerkraut and Cabbage, Steaming Hot!
The Battle of Sauerkraut and Cabbage is next on Sports' Bill of Fare. And fans and families both vote it a dish that is sure rich and rare. When Mick squares off against Dutchman, Oh! You can be sure that the pair will put up a shindy as hot as a half-baked man's hair!
The last time that Shamus met Ernie for a hair stopped a punch with his chin.
The canaries started in chirping—Shamus! What a terrible die!
But this time, promises Dutchman, he'll land such a haymaking rap as his Ernie right over the ring ropes and drop him headfirst in your lap!
We've oft heard these fighters raising, their speeches do not mean a damned thing.
For words do not win fistie battles, 'tis punch that counts most in the ring.
Remember, you fans and you fannies, when fighters boast loud what they'll do,
That ninety-nine times in a hundred 'tis only the old balldoon!

But this time it isn't the old balldoon. No balldoon is needed. Shamus really thinks he can knock Ernie for a loop and Ernie knows he can knock Shamus out of his brogan. And the public is just as evenly divided in its sentiments. The whole town is talking. It's the hottest fight "natural" Boston has had since the days of the old Sharkey-Maloney imbroglio. It took more to convince Maloney's followers that Sharkey was the better man than it did to drive home the fact to Maloney himself. The debate is waiting just as hot over tomorrow night's shindy in the Boston Garden as it did over any of the Maloney-Sharkey soilers.

KNOCKS BLACKCOFF! MURDERIM! MASSACRE IM! KNOCKIM FERALOOP! SHAMUS ERNIE

"Just before Schaaf landed that lucky punch," orated a wild Maloney fanatic, as he hooted and whooped, "didn't Jim Shan his own right up against the Dutchman's chin and have Ernie as dizzy as a guy with seven shots of the brand of Four Aces the feds the town? If Jim only had stepped in with another punch instead of stepping back and seeing how Schaaf liked it, the fight would have been over then and there."

Sure it would. And if the bounds hadn't stopped to chase the rabbit they might have caught the fox. It's always to "fix" a follow into victory. That little "if" has won and lost more rince battles than Jack Dempsey's "Iron Mike."

But the rabid Maloney fan is right, anyway, about that haymaker Maloney careened Ernie's chin with just before Schaaf landed the poliohouse on the button that put Jim's lights out. Ernie went back on his back with a jolt, but he fell back in punching like a riving machine. Give us the guy that slings leather when he's hurt and we'll give you the winner.

By this time you probably have the impression that a bee is buzzing around in our bonnet humming that Schaaf should repeat. He should. If he waded Shamus into the arms of Morpheus once, the chances all are in favor of his doing it again.

Once in a while you get a guy like Stanley Ketchell who comes right back and flails a fellow flogger who clouted him stiff. But Ketchell don't go on every bush. Old Onan. Nobody ever accused Jim Maloney of being a Ketchell.

We don't claim we are of any Old Uncle Infalible. Maloney may win. But it's dollars to doughnuts he will not win by a knock-out. Schaaf isn't the knocked-out kind. He can be licked, all right. Half a dozen fellows in the game may outpoint him. But he can't see anybody on the fistie horizon just now who seems capable of knocking him out. It will take another Dempsey to do that. Father Time isn't going to give us another Dempsey for a long, long time. Only Dempsey's "Iron Mike" can crack him or ribs like Ernie Schaaf's.

JAW OF IRON RIBS OF OAK THAT'S SCHAAF!

Regardless of who brings home the bacon it should be a while of a fight as long as it lasts. It looks as if Schaaf has found his punching slot. His last three fights have been won with legitimate knockouts. Gagner and "One Punch" Williams made their exit just as quickly as did Maloney.

Maloney can't expect to win by mouthing his bicycle and tanning. And even if he does attempt to, he says, which is no way to win a battle at all, he's sooner or later likely to lose his poles and start mixing it. Remember what happened the last time when Shamus attempted to mix it?

Schaaf is headed toward the heights. Money isn't likely to buy him into putting on the hobbles and carrying Shamus. No, Glarice, the two factions are too inimical for "business" to be done. It's going to be a real honest-to-goodness, old-fashioned slugfest. See, Park us right up at the ringside when Shamus and Ernie begin boxing leather.

To mark us right close to the ringside for leather will surely fix. When Ernie Schaaf starts to working on Shamus Maloney's eye. And Shamus starts boxing to working of a fist on the end of his arm. When Dutchman and Mick get to scrapping, we wouldn't note it for a farm!

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

HE WEARS THE CROWN OF THE GREAT JONES AND WEARS IT WELL

By GEORGE UNDERWOOD
The 3 o'clock whistle blew at the Eastern Malibee Iron Works Monday afternoon and ad Peter Burkowski dropped his tools and hurried to his modest little flat at No. 28 City Hall at Union City, N. J. Burkowski's domestic was surrounded by a cheering, yelling mob. From out of the crowd, a Peter Burkowski heard someone shout:

"Three cheers for Billy Burke! The Polack boy is champion of the world!"
Old Peter Burkowski turned and shook his fist at the mob, shouting: "Don't yell my boy a Polack! He is an American! And I am an American! Polish, the man who calls my boy Polish is a big knacker. He is an American! He is not some of Polack blood. We are of the Lithuanians!"

Old Peter Burkowski did not want to be a guide. He wanted him to be a steel worker. He is not quite sure yet, even though his on now wears the crown of the immortal Jones, and wears it well. He is a steady job, he said. All I know is I work six days a week, nine hours a day and I get my pay envelope every week. Now after will my boy get his pay envelope?

The steel mill cost Billy Burke the tips of two fingers on his right hand. The winner of golf's highest honors wears a glove in the club with his first finger, thumb and little finger. Three fingers were strong enough to win him the world's title.

While working as an iron mold apprentice in the steel mill Billy Burke occasionally worked at the Naugatuck Country Club, State Street, J. T. R. Louis in the club with his first finger, thumb and little finger. Three fingers were strong enough to win him the world's title.

The next year, a new hole course was installed at the State

"There's Music in the Air"

By MYLES T. McWEENEY

Arthur (the Great) Shires, former big leaguer, recently entertained fans on a rainy day by rendering an unpolished and unappreciated solo, while umpires debated whether there should be a game.

The fans in hearing range put on ear-muffs. Others clutched their rain checks, and ran out of the park.

Everyone agreed that Shires, singing, was a great ball player.

The following rules, afterward were, we understand, unanimously adopted:

When a player starts to sing, umpire must advance towards said player, and standing six paces away, inhale the first four bars.

If odor is suspicious, umpire must order player to sing "Sweet Adeline" in four parts.

If any or all of four parts are missing, umpire must ask player to flask.

Umpire must then ask player to repeat "Sweet Adeline" in two parts, while he, having sampled flask, sings the other two parts.

At this point, customers are allowed to intervene. But bottles should not be filled with concrete.

Shot-guns and bowie knives are barred.

All kinds of language, however, are permissible.

Come, boys, get that pitch!

R. M. Wilson and Richard Woodman, South Shore, defeated Frank Craven and A. W. Chisholm, Sandy Burr, 1 up.

By BILL GRIMES
Three upsets occurred in the first round of the annual Winchester Country Club four ball invitation this morning, the outstanding of which was the 1 up victory of Bunny Wilson and Dick Woodman of South Shore over Frank Craven and A. W. Chisholm, rated as one of the strongest four ball combinations in the field.

Milan and Mel Heath, Brewster, eliminated Jim Baldwin and Bill Arnold, who were members of the Harvard Varsity golf team for three years. In the all-brother match, Joe and Fred Batchelder defeated Win and Frank Hervey.

Wilson and Woodman were two down to Craven and Chisholm going to the short 14th. But they craved the match at the 13th, but topped, the first having the next two holes won the first with a 4, as Craven missed a short putt for 4.

Two birdies by Batchelder had an instant bearing on the outcome of the Batchelder-Hervey match. The Batchelders were one down at the turn but squared the match at the 17th, where Joe got a 4.

Fred's birdie four at his long 12th put the Salem team out in front and after they had halved the 13th and 14th, Joe came through with the 15th with a four. But a birdie three by Win Hervey reduced their lead one hole. Joe Batchelder got the only four at the 17th, which decided the match.

The brothers were out in 38 to be two up on Eldred and Arnold, and were four up going to the 14th, but topped, this point being two out of the next three holes, and were only one up going to the 17th, which Milton Heath won with a four, deciding the match.

Paul-Nelson Team
Get Early Lead

Four of the first-round matches were decided affairs. Howard Paul and E. M. Nelson played to a 4-3 victory over Allen Bond and A. C. Buckmaster, and the winners were four up on Al Bond and A. C. Buckmaster. Louis Grimbail and Dan Conner turned in a 3-3 victory over Ed Dagnine and E. P. Kimball. Jack Hovis won a 5-4 over Joe Fay and Dick Nuzari, Sandy Burr, and Jerry Moore and Bill Fleming put out Bill Fleming and George Thatcher of Wrentham, 5-3.

MAX-CARNERA FIGURE

SITE OF THE FIGHT DECIDED

New York, July 9 (U.S.)—Somewhere in America, some time during September, probably on the 17th, the German Schmelling and the Italian Carnera will fight it out for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Although the site and the date are indefinite, the match itself was formally announced at a meeting of William B. Saxe, an official of Madison Square Garden, and Joe Jacobs and Leon Saxe, managers of Schmelling and Carnera.

The only stipulation made by Jacobs was that the match must be scheduled for 15 rounds, which automatically eliminates Philadelphia and Chicago, the only cities where bouts of that duration are permitted are New York, Jersey City and Cleveland, and Cleveland will not be considered.

Forfeits for the match were waived by mutual consent. Jacobs contended after Schmelling's victory over Young Strickling that Carnera had forfeited his right to the match by failing to post his first fight of $25,000.

But Jacobs said the Garden by Carnera to break the very contract which he now wishes to have will be dropped, it is understood.

Max Will Get 37 1/2 Percent of Gate

The readiness with which Jacobs agreed to terms of the widely-circulated story that Schmelling would not fight until 1932, is again evidence of the 25 per cent of the proceeds for Schmelling's end, while Jacobs proved 37 1/2 per cent for Carnera.

Whether the match actually takes place will depend to a large extent on the outcome of the impending bout between Mickey Walker and Jack Sharkey. Jacobs cannot so secret of his hope for a Walker victory. Unless someone removes Sharkey, Schmelling will not be allowed to meet anyone else in this State.

Today Mrs. Thompson will meet Mrs. J. D. Shroder of Troy, who plays from Doreen Field Club, in the semifinal round.

Last year these two met in the championship event at Rutland and Mrs. Shroder was the winner.

DAILY SHOTS FROM EVERYWHERE

By JACK CONWAY

Matchmaker Alex MacLean of the Crounch-Plexon Post of the American Legion was reading a telegram when Mr. Boston dropped in on him.

"This wire is from Gus Sonnenberg," said Alex. "He's on his way back to wrestle Bobbie Muir of Australia."

"In the semi-final bout on our card at Brown Field next Tuesday night."

"This assumes the success of the show," Mr. Boston said. "I don't know if it's the fight or the show."

Matchmaker Alex MacLean of the Crounch-Plexon Post of the American Legion was reading a telegram when Mr. Boston dropped in on him.

"This wire is from Gus Sonnenberg," said Alex. "He's on his way back to wrestle Bobbie Muir of Australia."

"In the semi-final bout on our card at Brown Field next Tuesday night."

"This assumes the success of the show," Mr. Boston said. "I don't know if it's the fight or the show."

The Life Story of WILEY POST, FLIER

This is the sixth in a series of eight installments in a life story of Wiley Post. The previous installments traced the career of this Texas-born farm youth as barnstormer, chief test pilot for an airplane factory and as a man who carefully laid his aviation groundwork.

PART IV
His growth as chief test pilot at the Burbank, Cal., airplane factory gave way to the dream of Wiley Post, to do something "big for aviation."

Art Goebel's record, non-stop transcontinental flight in 1928 and the 1929 refueling endurance contest further whetted his aviation appetite.

"I got the check," he relates, "on a Saturday. Sunday a couple of other fliers were there, and I was expected to go after the transcontinental record during last year's national air races, hoping to fly in the Pacific non-stop derby to Chicago where he had refused and head for New York."

HE WON THE DERBY
He became test pilot, but won the derby. He felt he could not go to New York. In this race from Los Angeles to New York, he won a winner over a fast field.

He finished the race in 9 hours 9 minutes and 4 seconds. "In his eighth circling course, he piloted a 'Winnie Mae' provided by G. F. Galt, he could not go to New York. In this race from Los Angeles to New York, he won a winner over a fast field."
